COVID-19 has rapidly changed the landscape of technology and how we use it, while we cope with an unprecedented healthcare crisis and adjust to new work environments.

This CTO/CIO Forum, "Innovation and Technology in the Post Pandemic World" will provide insights on how deep technology impacts business and industries, and how small, minority and diverse as well as mid-sized businesses could follow the trend, the demand, the need, and the shortage, to succeed in the new economy.

How have CTOs/CIOs changed or collaborated since the pandemic began? What are the digital effects of AI and work automation as more workers are being displaced?

And more!

These questions will be responded from a variety of major corporations' CTO/CIO perspectives

- Chetan Kandhari, CIO, Nationwide; Chairman, USPAACC CTO/CIO Council
- Claus Jensen, Chief Digital Officer and Head of Technology, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center
- John Saw, Executive Vice President, Advanced & Emerging Technologies, T-Mobile
- Rich Chung, CTO of Agile Transformation, Wells Fargo

Small, minority & diverse businesses wanting to align with the strategic plans of major corporations MUST NOT MISS THIS FORUM.
