This is a partial list. The following are at our field offices should come off your list: Alman, Dave; Felber, Betty;

You will want to add: Kripowicz, Bob; Furiga, Rick; Rudins, George; Braitsch, Jay; Singer, Marvin; Como, Tony;

I'll send others as I think of them but this is 90% of who you should contact.

Elena,

On another note, you are invited to the Deep Trek workshop. I told Kevin to mail you an invitation today. I apologize, I was remiss in not getting you clued in earlier. I am trying to catch up after being out of the office for a week. I could use your assistance on getting more people to attend if you have an hour or so today or early next week.

I've attached rewrites of two of the papers.

Subject: Rescheduling Peer Review Meetings from Last Week...

For State, Transportation and Treasury - we would like to reschedule your meetings for Tuesday the 20th. We have four time slots open so please let me know ASAP which will work for you: 2:00, 3:00, 4:00 or 5:00.

For DOE, we're hoping you can come in at 9:00 a.m. on Wednesday the 21st. Will that work for you guys? Please let me know as soon as possible.

Once we're able to reschedule all of the peer review meetings, I'll send out an e-mail to all of you on the NEPDG working group to let you know the times so you can attend sessions if you would like. Again, at that point, I'll need to know what sessions you plan to attend so we can get you cleared into the OEOB and I'll need your info. (full name, SS# and DOB) if we don't already have that info. on file.

Thanks, we look forward to hearing from you soon. -Kjersten

Unocal: Gas patent won't boost prices

Unocal: Gas patent won't boost prices
By HIL ANDERSON, UPI Chief Energy Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20 (UPI) -- Unocal Corp. downplayed fears that Tuesday's U.S. Supreme Court decision not to hear the case against the patents on its reformulated gasoline formulas would lead to another summer of soaring prices at the pump.

The high court decided Tuesday it would not hear an appeal from five of Unocal's fellow oil companies and let stand a lower court ruling that upheld Unocal's patents and the company's right to seek royalty payments of 5.75 cents per gallon from companies that use its formula.

The uncertainty over the Unocal case last summer was looked at by some analysts as playing a role in the hefty nationwide spike in pump prices that sullied an otherwise banner year for summer vacation travel.

Unocal executives were elated at Tuesday's news from Washington. Officials said the back royalties could produce annual royalty revenues of $75-$150 million, however they insisted that consumers would not bear the brunt.

"We believe that our patented formulations provide refiners and blenders with a cost-effective way of meeting California and federal standards for cleaner-burning gasoline," said Charles E. Williamson, Unocal's chief executive officer. "We estimate that licenses for our patents would add less than 1 cent per gallon to the cost of reformulated gasoline nationwide."

The patent challenge case primarily involved formulas for gasoline used only in California, however refiners nationwide were reluctant to produce fuel that might place them in a position to eventually be sued by Unocal. That reluctance was accompanied by warnings that an overall shortage of RFG could result if refiners could not find a way to blend RFG without stepping on Unocal's toes.

Pump prices nationwide pumped last summer with the increase largely the result of higher crude prices, although shortages of RFG drove retail prices in the Chicago and Milwaukee areas to $2 per gallon.

Unocal, however, said that RFG can be made with formulas that differ from theirs, and that the gasoline covered by the five patents in question applied to "summer" RFG gasoline that has a lower so-called Reid Vapor Pressure -- which indicates a slower rate of evaporation -- and accounts for less than half of all RFG varieties.

Nevertheless, Williamson said that the time had come for the nation's refiners to meet with Unocal to work out an accommodation.

"Lost in this long dispute is the simple fact that utilizing the formulations in our cleaner-burning gasoline patents can save refiners and consumers millions of dollars while improving air quality," he said. "We think it's time for all of the parties to sit down and negotiate fair and reasonable licensing agreements."

Attached is the latest version of Chapter 10 (just received). We sent edits from EIA and FE during the last round. Please check to see if your edits were accepted. And provide general review, if you feel so inclined. This should be it for this chapter (famous last words). Note that recommendations are embedded in chapter as they were in the last version. Most of you have probably seen the recommendations DOE put forward (sent to your PSO) so now we can do a consistency check.

A SELECTIVE NUCLEAR ENERGY R&D PROGRAM UNDER SEVERE BUDGET RESTRICTIONS

The broad R&D program (Table 1) recommended by the Nuclear Energy Research Advisory Committee (NERAC) in June 2000 comprises the essentials to assure a re-vitalization of U. S. nuclear energy capability. The funding recommendation, although much higher than present nuclear energy R&D funding by DOE ($70 million in FY2001), is very low compared to funding of alternative fossil and renewable energy sources ($265 million / yr. in 2005 versus $545 million and $373 million in FY2001 for fossil and renewable energy, respectively) If $265 million is not forthcoming because of budget constraints, what should be selected as having the highest priority and at what levels?

The answer has to be shaped from the overall priorities in, and the responsibilities for, actions to revitalize the nation's nuclear power enterprise. These actions, given in order of priority, are interdependent, each depending on effective progress on the preceding one:

- (1) Safe and economic operation of the present fleet of U.S. nuclear power plants over an extended lifetime of 60 years, is essential to gain investor confidence in building new plants, and the prime responsibility of industry. (The NEPO program is a miniscule part of this overall industry effort, simply an acknowledgment that the DOE cares about continued viable operation of U.S. nuclear plants.)
- (2) A decision to proceed with the licensing and construction of a permanent repository for spent nuclear fuel at the Yucca Mountain site. Continued uncertainty on providing the repository is a major barrier to expanding nuclear power in the U.S. DOE carries full responsibility, although the industry pays the way.
- (3) Building new nuclear power plants in the U.S. in this decade. The need to minimize financial risk to the private sector investors places a high premium on proven technology and assured licensability. The NRC's standardization policy (as incorporated in CFR Part 52) provides a stable and timely licensing process. It is essential to obtain an early site permit (or equivalent) and a certified design with which to achieve a combined construction and operating license before a private sector owner(s) puts up the major investments to construct a nuclear plant. Plants that already have NRC design certification (presently all advanced light water reactors) should be given the highest priority for this reason. The private sector has the prime investment responsibility, but since the government is responsible for the crucial element of regulation, it is reasonable to expect some resource sharing from DOE to implement the critical elements of the standardized licensing process. More nuclear power capacity in the short term will pave the way for advanced nuclear power plants in the long term by sustaining investment confidence in nuclear power while establishing the demand for an expanded nuclear fuel supply.
- (4) Developing advanced nuclear power plants that are capable of sustaining nuclear energy production over the long term, in particular by opening up the vast reserves of nuclear fuel contained in uranium and thorium. Incorporation of advanced technology will provide for even greater safety and environmental benefit, assured proliferation resistance, and improved economy. Because of the long time before deployment can be realized government has the prime responsibility for this effort.

Government funding in FY 2002 for the above four efforts in a very restricted budget should be in accordance with the following pattern (Industry co-sharing is also indicated):

- (1) Continued DOE support of the NEPO program at a level of $10 million annually, shared by industry at $10 million annually. Industry is independently expending at least $80 million annually if only EPRI funds are included. Total funding: >$100 million, $10 million by DOE.
- (2) Utilization of the presently planned DOE budget on the Yucca Mountain project to permit a go-ahead decision on the repository. Present budget: $390.4 million, provided by rate-payers to DOE through nuclear utilities)
- (3) DOE budget support of selective actions to achieve near term deployment of design certified advanced light water reactor plants at a level of $28 million, matched by industry, to:
  - obtain early site permits.
  - define the detailed process of obtaining a combined construction and operating plant and assuring that both the construction is carried out and the plant is operated in accord with the license.
  - develop advanced information management and virtual construction technologies to reduce ALWR capital costs and construction times.
  - support a design certification application for a passive ALWR (AT-1000), twice the power output of the presently certified design (AT-600).

A significant portion of these funds are to pay for NRC fees for the required licensing action. Total funding: $56 million, equally shared by industry and government.

- (4) DOE support of advanced nuclear power plant development through a modest expansion of the NERI Program, the International NERI program, continued support of the Roadmap development for future nuclear power plants, and initiation of NRC confirmatory testing of the fuel and power conversion materials for the Pebble Bed Modular Reactor (Industry, through international participation in the S African PBMR development, will fund the design and initial test). Total funding: $75 million, a small portion of which is cost-shared by contractors.

Thus, funding in FY2002 for these efforts, in a very restricted budget, should be at least $113 million, compared with $39 million at present.

All,

As most of you know, the NEP deadline has been moved up and the Task Force wants to finalize the report (all 10 chapters) and the policy options within the next two weeks. I'll be sending out a status report each day with any papers you might want/need to review. Please make sure that anyone who needs to see this e-mail does. Someone please send me Jeff Stier's email address (his mail is bouncing back).

Interagency group has met on Chapters 3, 6, 7, and 8 (DOE-lead chapters)

EE (Mary Beth and Michael York) are incorporating comments into chapter 6 - renewables (deadline Thursday COB)

FE (Jay) and NE (Trevor) working on chapter 8 - increasing supply (deadline Thursday COB)

Policy (me) working on chapter 7 - efficiency (deadline Thursday COB). I'll circulate when I get comments in.

Policy (me) working on chapter 3 comments - impacts on consumers and trying to get chapter integrated into chapter 5. I'll circulate when I get comments in.

Other papers:

Chapter 5 - economic impacts (Treasury). Met yesterday. No significant comments from any agency.

Chapter 9 - infrastructure. DOT keeps rescheduling their meeting to review. I am trying to locate the most recent copy and will want Paula and Chris and Jeff to take a look.

Chapter 10. State turns this around so fast, we can't keep up. Attached is a new version but I just sent them EIA and PO comments today so I am sure they are not incorporated.

Policy Options: Policy consolidating the 170 policy options received through the process we sent up. Will have package ready for S1 review by Friday.

Here's the environment chapter as reworked by Bill, Kevin and me.
Again -- it does not have a recommendations section because we believe we need further guidance before we can proceed with that.

All.

This is the environment chapter (reflecting one round of interagency comments. I am unclear about the process on this one. I do know the topic was added in late. Not sure DOE commented on an initial draft). Please take a look and get comments back (sooner is always good, as in Monday COB). You will note that the authors (EPA) put in recommendations. Feel free to comment on them - they duplicate many of the ones you put forward. Recall that DOE is not putting in their proposals until S1 has had an opportunity to review (see last night's note). I'll send out another note before I go today updating you on progress from my end. Thank you everybody who have been crashing on this.

RECOMMENDATION TO ENHANCE US NUCLEAR ENERGY RD&D

The Need for Long-term R&D

The Nuclear Energy Research Advisory Committee (NERAC), formed in compliance with the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA), has recommended that DOE pursue nuclear energy RD&D programs to:

- revitalize U.S. nuclear energy supply.
- re-instate effective radio-isotope production for medicine and industry,
- increase basic nuclear research, and
- re-build the physical and human infrastructure needed for these purposes

Roadmap for Expanded Nuclear Power Capability

NERAC has also been charged to oversee DOE's development of a Roadmap defining:

- the goals of both a long- and short-term nuclear energy R&D program,
- the technology gaps that need to be closed to reach those goals,
- advanced nuclear power plant candidates with potential for short term (by 2020) and long term (by 2050) deployment,
- appropriate resource requirements and time frames, and
- criteria to measure progress toward the goals.

Goals for Future Nuclear Power Plants

The three primary, and their subsidiary, goals for new nuclear power plants are:

- Sustainability, providing
  - free energy with essentially no air pollution or greenhouse gas emissions
  - a stable and abundant fuel supply
  - minimum amounts of radioactive waste
  - a reduced long-term stewardship burden
  - route to weapons proliferation.
- Improved safety and reliability, assuring
  - equal or better plant availability factors (>90%) than today
  - reduced chance of accidental fuel damage
  - need for emergency response.
- Economic competitiveness against other energy sources, including
  - a full life-cycle cost advantage
  - a comparable level of financial risk.

These criteria will allow screening down to a small number of candidates on which to place primary focus and resources. Safety, environmental, and non-proliferation goals and criteria, along with cost competitiveness, are of key importance in assuring successful deployment. Of these, NERAC has recommended that internationally accepted methods of assessment and standards for proliferation resistance should be more fully developed, building on the existing international non-proliferation regime. This need is of particular importance for development of acceptable advanced plant candidates slated for long-term deployment that recycle to maximize the use of nuclear fuel.

Industrial and International Cooperation

Two common themes in the NERAC recommendations are:

- industry and DOE, with its national labs, should enter into cost-share partnering, especially for the nuclear power plants slated for near term deployment, and
- international cooperation should be fostered to assure global development consistent with U. S. policies on safety, the environment, and proliferation resistance.

Doe has engaged U.S. industry, and those of its overseas allies with on-going nuclear energy programs, in the development of the Roadmap.

Recommendations to Strengthen Nuclear Energy RD&D

- Strengthen the NERI program to foster innovative nuclear power concepts.
- Strengthen the NEPO program, cost-shared with industry, to assure the continued effective operation of present plants
- Strengthen the university program to develop a new generation of nuclear engineers and scientists.
- Expand long-term R&D by an additional $280 million annually by 2005
- Implement the roadmap by developing a vigorous program to demonstrate the most promising of these technologies. This will require substantial additional funding and will involve a concerted interaction with industry

Re-building the Nuclear Energy Infrastructure

NERAC has advised that to achieve the goals and meet the needs outlined above will require re-building the U.S. nuclear energy infrastructure, both in human skills and facilities. Re-building is required also for national security and the long-term stewardship of defense nuclear materials and facilities as well as the effective management of radioactive wastes and spent fuels from both civilian and defense sectors. A fundamental starting point is the training of qualified personnel in our universities.

This re-building, coupled with the implementation of the RD&D programs recommended above, will entail substantial funding increases and enhanced priority within the federal government and industry, without which the nation's energy needs and national security will not be achieved.

Margot,

I think this is what you are looking for. It is figures 2 and 3 in the March 2001 STEO. Here's the web page where you can copy a number of others if needed.

All,

Joe's revised draft. Thanks for all the comments

Still to do:

- 1) Fact checking. Still blanks to fill in. In some cases, we need a source. EIA cannot corroborate without it.
- 2) Please read red edits - these are outstanding issues that still need attention and/or discussion.
- 3) Plan on meeting in PO conference room (7B-040) on Tuesday 2/20 at 11:30 to discuss draft and get new instructions that will come out of a morning WH meeting.

Margot,

I have reviewed sec 1 (attached). I guess I have been out of the process for the past few days. There are host of numbers that need to be checked and/or added. Also, there are indications for graphs. How will this be accomplished? Will the authors get together to resolve the comments? How should I proceed.
