I oppose the plan to export the natural gas coming into New England because of the emissions associated with the pipeline which are as polluting over all as the fossil based energy sources we are now using. These should be phased out, not increased by the extreme methods needed to extract gas from the tiny crevices mined in our insatiable quest for more fossil fuels. Since the natural gas we are acquiring should be considered precious and acquired at a high environmental price we should judiciously use this product here. Shipping it to Europe increases its environmental impact yet more through the shipping, using yet more fuel to move the product and the possibility of explosions, etc.

As the comment period for this proposal was not well publicized it should be extended to allow more people to express their opinions.

Thank you, Anna Hanchett, Plainfield, MA
